City Planner Would Take Street Car Line From State Street

Radical Changes Proposed by City Planning Expert Here

COUNCIL HEARS REPORT

Would Put Car Line On University Ave.; Ask Elevation of Tracks

Radical changes are proposed to make Madison an ideal city for the next 50 years by Harland Bartholomew, city planner, St. Louis, employed by the city to make a survey upon which shall be based all future improvements. His preliminary report was presented to the city council Tuesday night. It will be some time yet before the final report is made.

The removal of the street car line from State street to University avenue, extended to Washington avenue, is proposed. If the line is not [illegible] it is proposed that State [illegible] widened. Radical Changes As Proposed By City Plan Expert

Removal of street car line from State st. to University ave., extended to Mifflin, or widening of State st.

Extension of University ave., increased to 100 feet in width, to Washington ave., near Henry st.

Connection of Regent st. and W. Washington ave.

Connection of S. Hamilton st. across Monona Bay to South Madison.

Elimination of all railroad grade crossings by elevating track grades and depressing street grades, and construction of viaducts.

Removal of the Milwaukee freight yards to the outside of the city, to the south along the shore of Lake Monona.

Elimination of Northwestern road freight yards between Blair and Baldwin and expansion of its north yards.

Big Tim Held Guilty; Pals Also Convicted

Chicago Gunman and Associates Held for Mail Robbery

CHICAGO—"Big Tim" Murphy, union leader, and alleged gunman, was found guilty today by a jury in Judge Landis court of plotting the $360,000 mail robbery at Dearborn station last April. Vincenzo Cosmano, union president and protege of Murphy, Edward Geirum, alleged driver if the bandits' car, and Paul Vicanti also were convicted.

Murphy was convicted on two counts of conspiracy to rob the mail. Each count carries a maximum penalty of two years imprisonment and $[illegible] fine. Cosmano and Geirum were found guilty on the conspiracy [illegible] also. A charge of robbing the mail was not sustained by the jury. Attorneys for the convicted [illegible] motions for retrial. All the defendants were allowed their [illegible] present bonds until [illegible] Monday, when Judge Landis will hear the motions.

Murphy expressed himself as highly pleased on escaping conviction on the robbery charge.

"I got a square deal from Judge Landis," Murphy said.

Says Japs Unfit To Emigrate Abroad

WASHINGTON — The Japanese nation is really unfit for emigrating abroad, declared Gov. J. Inouye of the bank of Japan, and one of the leading Japanese delegates at the coming disarmament conference.

"As historically proved, said Governor Inouye, "It is almost hopeless to think of removing our increasing population to other counteies"

Local Business Men In Appeal On U. W. Memorial Campaign

To Madison Men and Women:

This city is called upon to contribute $100,000,00 to make possible a One Million Dollar Memorial Union Building on Lake Mendota, all to be paid for by popular subscription.

If anything this is less than Madison's fair share—it certainly is not more.

Many people have not yet responded. We urge this upon your attention.

The subscriptions are payable during the two years of 1922 and 1923, thus enabling us to do several times as much as we could if it all came due at once.

Many have already subscribed. We find it necessary to ask many of these to increase their subscriptions; we hope you will respond liberally.

Madison must not fail to do its full duty towards this splendid memorial.

It should subscribe its full share by Armistice Day, November 11.

The Headquarters of the Canvass are at the City Y. M. C. A. If you are able to do any work on this canvass or if you have not yet subscribed your share will you not call at the Headquarters as soon as possible and let us know what you can do.

Madison can not afford to leave any doubt that it enthusiastically and liberally supports its greatest asset, the University, in this the only appeal in its history.

Walkout Of Packers Near; Wages Are Cut

"Big Five" Will Slash Scale; Workers Authorize Strike Call

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO—A general cut in wages of packing house workers was forecast today when Armour and Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and Cudahy Packing Co. requested their employes to consider in the plant councils a reduction in pay to be made effective in the near future. No definite amount was mentioned and officials said their conferences had not determined the size of the reduction to be sought.

Morris & Co., the only one of the big five which has not established employes' councils, is expected to make any reduction which the others agree on.

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen union of North America recently took a strike vote in which a substantial majority authorized Cornelius Hayes, international president, to order a walkout if he was unable to reach a satisfactory agreement with the packers.

District presidents from all packing centers in the country will meet here next week to consider what action shall be taken under the strike authorization recently voted.

Explains Research Work of National Clothiers

Research for facts and statistics of the retail merchant's business by the National Retail association and the value to the members were thoroughly explained by Charles E. Wry, executive director and secretary, at the initial meeting of about 35 retail dry goods and clothing merchants of Madison and neighboring towns at the city Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night. George C. Flynn, treasurer of the National Retailers association, presided.

Short talks were made by H. O. McCabe, secretary of the Wisconsin Retailers associations; Joseph Willsey, vice president of Dry Goods and Clothiers association; Thomas Murray of Burdick and Murray Co., president of State Dry Goods association; H. L. Geisler. president of General Agency Co.

Yanks Were Shot by Pals Johnson Says

Tells House He Believes Cowards Were Killed by Comrades

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Rep. Johnson, rep., So. Dak., a former officer in the army, declared in the house today that while he had no substantiation of the charge "had reason to believe that soldiers who were traitors, cowards or mentally unfit, were shot by their own comrades while facing the enemy."

The statement was hotly denied by Rep. Bulwinkle, dem., N. Car., also a former officer, who declared he would not permit the Johnson statement to go unchallenged.

"No American was shot in France without trial," said Johnson, "but there may have been cases where they were shot in the line of battle by their own forces as traitors or as mentally deranged."

Democratic members attempted to break in on the speaker, who could not make himself heard at times because of the hubbub.

Commenting on the charge of illegal hangings made by Sen. Watson, Mr. Johnson declared:

"No matter how we agree or disagree with the former secretary of war or Gen. Pershing, I know the charge that men were taken out and hanged without court martial conviction is not true. And, I know that no officer or private carried out no such orders for illegal hangings."

60 Employed Girls at Industrial Club Dinner

The first student-industrial meeting ever held in Madison took place last night at the city P. W. C. A. when 60 university girls met with 60 employed girls to visit through the dinner hour and later to form discussion groups. Madison presents a field almost ideal for the working out of a movement begun bythe P. W. C. A. with the object o fbringing together for mutual benefit the girls of the university and the girls in industry, it is said. Talks were given last night by Prof. Don D. Lescohier of the economics department, Miss Mary Anderson of the University P. W. C. C. and Miss Frances Toy, industrial secretary of the city P. W. C. A.

Armistice Program Complete

Mayor and Governor Today Issue Proclamations for Friday

FLAGS AT HALF MAST

Activities Will Be Halted For Two Minutes at 11 O'Clock

Impressive services in the morning and evening, including two minutes of silent prayer, and stirring and patriotic addresses by local, state, and national personages will mark Madison's observance of Armistice day on Friday.

Flags will be hung at half-mast in memory of the soldier dead, and business will be practically at a standstill for several hours during the day, according to a proclamation issued today by Mayor I. M. Kittleson. Activities of every sort have been requested to be halted for two minute period from 11 o'clock until two minutes past—known as the zero hour—by proclamations from President Harding, Gov. J. J. Blaine and Mayor Kittleson. All persons are asked to stop their labors or recreation sharply at 11 o'clock, to face the east, and bow their heads in silent prayer for the following two minutes.

The morning service will be held at the west entrance to the capitol. There will be programs in the schools. A tree planting service will be held at the Wisconsin ave. entrance to the capitol. James Hamilton Lewis, former U. S. senator, will be the principal speaker in the evening at 8 o clock at the stock pavilion. In his proclamation today, Mayor Kittleson says:

"This is Madison's opportunity to demonstrate her appreciation of the deep significance of the day; and I know her citizenship will not fail.

"Now, therefore, as mayor of the city of Madison, I recommend, "That the American flag be displayed at half mast from dawn to dusk on that day. That the citizens of our fair city lay aside their usual vocations for at least a part of that day and enter into the spirit which has prompted its special observance. That all business places be closed from 10 o'clock in the forenoon until 1 o'clock in the afternoon on that day. That the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon be observed as zero hour at which time every person should face the east and bow in silent prayer for two minutes. That all our people participate in the exercises which begin at the cenotaph in the capitol park at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon and close with a mass meeting in the stock pavilion at 8 o'clock in the evening. That every organization, club and society of every character, as well as individuals place floral tributes at the cenotaph after zero hour."

Gov. John J. Blaine in a supplemental statement today recommends that Friday, November 11, be recognized as a holiday throughout this state.

"On Nov. 1, I issued an Armistice Day proclamation, in which it was stated that "Friday, November 11, will by common consent be a holiday throughout the nation."

"Since then Congress has by joint resolution declared Armistice Day a legal public holiday, and the president of the United States has issued a proclamation accordingly.

"Now, therefore, supplementing my Armistice Day proclamation, I join with the Presirent and commend his proclamation to the people of Wisconsin, and I trust that in addition to my recommendations, the recommendations of the President will be observed.

Death Claims Mrs. German, City Pioneer

One of Earliest Settlers in Dane County Dies at Home Here

Mrs. Charles German, 1126 Jenifer street, died Tuesday at her home after an illness of two months.

Mrs. German was a member of one of the first families to settle in Dane county. Her father, Robert Gallagher, came to Blooming Grove in 1844, two years after his landing in Rochester, N. Y., to where he had come from Ireland. She was the second youngest of a family of ten children, all of whom lived in Madison or vicinity and of whom E. L. Gallagher is now most active.

When Robert Gallagher brought his bride and other relatives to this community during that early period the entire number of buildings then standing amounted to two, a wooden hut and a two-story wooden house set in a wilderness. This last building was erected for Eben Peck by Abraham Wood, who was the local contractor. This building was later enlarged to the proportions of a hotel and named the Madison House. The hotel was really two cabins, joined together with a large room in the middle, which was reserved for banquets, dances and secret caususes.

Mrs. German later moved into Madison proper after her first marriage in 1874. The family home was then at 1137 Williamson street after Mr. Gallagher had moved in from the farm and acquired large property holdings in the sixth ward, which he later platted and sold. In 1889 she was married the second time to Charles German, a creamery owner with creameries at Lake Mills, London, Verona and Madison. The sixth ward was at that time largely residential district with only one or the large factories located there. This was the Fuller & Johnson Plow Works, forerunner of the present extended industrial section. Mrs. German had seen the boundaries of Madison extend in all directions until the population of her home ward now exceeds the entire population of the city at her arrival.

She was well known throughout the city because of her extensive interests in societies and charitable organizations. The Eastern Star and White Shrine were her fraternal affiliations and she was also a member of the Women's Relief Corps and the Pilgrim Congregational church. She was ever encouraging and conducting carefully designed plans for the relief of the discomforts and troubles of others and was always extending her help whenever needed.

Mrs. German is survived by her husband, Charles German, a brother, E. L. Gallagher, two sisters, Anna L. Gallagher and Mrs. R. A. Leslie, both of Madison. Her daughter, Mrs. William Tollin, is now a resident of Washington, D. C.

The funeral will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Thursday with services conducted by Rev. George Hunt and Eastern Shrine services will be held at the mausoleum in the cemetery.

Wars Rooted In Economic Rivalry---Ross

Urges Organization to Ration Resources; Rev. Hunt Sees Menace

A resolution sent to President Harding, Secretary of State Hughes, and to the peace conference by the students of the University of Wisconsin today urges the representatives of government to "stand strongly for a fair and practical reduction of armaments," and "to demand the abolition of secret diplomacy." The resolution was passed this noon at a mass meeting at Music hall at which the final of a series of disarmament talks was given by Prof. Graham Stuart.

"An inter-national organization to collect statistics, and ration national resources in proportion to economics needs is a requisite to avoid competitive armament," said Prof. Edward A. Ross, of the sociology department of the university in the second of the series of disarmament speeches at the First Methodist church Tuesday night. Prof. Ross spoke on the Economic and Political Causes of Disarmament.

"Whenever defense is stronger than attack, it affords mankind a certain security. In our desire to make ourselves secure, me make ourselves a menace to some other people. Our military defense causes another nation to put through a greater defense for safety's sake.

"Rivalry for the control of mineral resources causes enormous struggle. Since the war, governments have had a tendency to seek control of mineral resources. Another economic root of trouble is the immigration difficulty. Cheap steerage tickets transports foreigners to all parts of the world. Over population in Asia is another source of economic difficulty. Eighty-seven years ago, the world had half as many people. Asia needs a source of expansion.

"Our only means to avert war is in organization of boards to control inter-national problems such as mineral supply and immigration."

Tonight Prof. Frederick L. Paxon of the history department of the university, will substitute for Prof. A. B. Hall. Prof. Paxon will speak at 8 o'clock in the First Baptist church.

Says War Is Suicidal

"War is equal to suicide by the whole human race," said the Rev. E. Hunt, of Christ Presbyterian church. Dr. Hunt will speak on disarmament at the Methodist church at Marshall, on Sunday. Explaining his views, Dr. Hunt said:

"Civilization will be absolutely destroyed in a future war unless the nations of the world not only disarm, but organize a collective police force for the enforcement of permanent peace.

"You can call it a league of nations, or anything you like, but there must be a supreme authority under which all nations are organized. This is what Wilson and the soberer leaders of American thought stood for. Unless the Harding administration brings up some plan for an international association in the present conference, this idea will furnish the issue of the next election, and the party espousing it will win overwhelmingly.

"Anyone who supposes that America can continue her traditional polity of isolation is mistaken. I criticize Sen. La Follette because he seems to agree with the republicans who refuse to consent to an agreement of nations.

"The next war will not be a war of guns but of aeronautics and chemistry."

Corn Crop Prospect in U. S. Declines Slightly

WASHINGTON—The corn crop declined slightly during October, today's preliminary estimate of the production made by the department of agriculture being 11,365,600 bushels less than was forecast a month ago. The total crop this year will be 3,151,698,000 bushels, still one of the largest ever produced. Preliminary estimates of other crops were announced as follows: Buckwheat 14,894,000, potatoes 356,076,000, sweet potatoes 105,841,000, tobacco (pounds) 1,020,874,000, flax seed 9,360,000, pears 9,780,000, apples 102,290,000, sugar beets (tons) 7,480,000, kafirs 125,724,000, peanuts 33,664,000.

The preliminary estimates of corn by principal producing states were: Illinois 304,550,000, Michigan 63,999,999, Wisconsin 91,080,000, Minnesota 131,733,000, Iowa 423,-74,000.

Mrs. Fred Wakem is to entertain the Help-One-Another club Thursday afternoon at her home, Badger road.

Blaine Orders Teacher to Be Freed From State Penitentiary

PHYSICIANS REPORT

Believe Treatment Needed To Save Life of Woman Held For Murder

Grace A. Lusk, Waukesha school teacher serving 19 years in prison for the murder of Mrs. David Roberts in 1917, as the climax of a love triangle, was granted a temporary release from the state penitentiary today by Gov. John J. Blaine.

She will leave the prison as soon as arrangements are made to receive surgical treatment which the governor says is necessary to save her life. Action on her application for a pardon will be deferred until the result of the treatment is known, Gov. Blaine declared.

The temporary release is granted, he says, following reports on the condition of the prisoner, made by two prison physicians, two physicians chosen by Miss Lusk and a fifth physician selected by the governor, who examined the reports of each of the others before arriving at his conclusion.

"Grace Lusk is a sick woman and should receive the consideration due her because of her illness," Gov. Blaine says in a statement accompanying the order for release. "It is necessary that she refrain from any interviews. No one will be permitted to call upon her, except by permission of the physician in charge, and then only friends will be permitted."

The governor declares that the necessary treatment to save the life of the prisoner is not available at the penitentiary, and that the chances for recovery are far greater if treatment is administered under such surroundings as will aid recovery.

"Regular reports will be furnished me by the physician in charge, and the application for pardon will be deferred until the result of the treatment is known," Gov. Blaine's statement says.

This action on the part of the governor is the result of a hearing held several months ago on the application of Grace Lusk for pardon. At that time her attorneys pleaded that the prisoner would die unless given proper treatment.

Her sentence to prison on conviction for murder followed her killing of the wife of Dr. David Roberts, a Waukesha veterinarian. She had maintained intimate relations with the doctor, and when he is alleged to have slighted her, killed his wife. Dr. Roberts served a short term in prison after conviction on a statutory charge.

Joyce is Granted a Divorce From Peggy

CHICAGO — A decree of divorce was granted J. Stanley Joyce, millionaire lumberman by Judge Sabath in superior court today upholding his charges that Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former chorus girl, had been guilty of misconduct with Henri Letellier, wealthy publisher and sportsman of Paris, and Evans Spaulding, New York clubman. Joyce yesterday settled with his chorus girl wife out of court for $80,000 in cash and jewels and furs valued at about $800,000. Judge Sabath ruled Mrs. Joyce's allegations that her husband was cruel and addicted to drink were unfounded. On the other hand he finds that Mrs. Joyce struck, scratched and maltreated her husband on various occasions.

Urge Car Line Off State St.

track trolley line, and has commercial development for the greater part of its length. University ave., a very important radial thoroughfare, connecting with a state trunk highway on the west, now terminates on the east at Gorham st., and has no direct connection with the capitol square.

"Because of the one-way traffic movement on the square, which is a vast improvement over the old two-way movement, practically all traffic leaving the square for the west leaves on State st. The congestion of traffic on this narrow thoroughfare is becoming acute and it is apparent to the most casual observer that some means must be evolved to care for the future traffic in this vicinity.

The extension of University ave. to the square is one way to relieve this situation. There are many elements which enter into a practical solution of this problem. One of the controlling factors in attempting to devise a feasible solution is the movement of traffic leaving the square on Mifflin at Carroll st.

Two plans were pointed out. One is to widen State, with the car lines intact. The second is to remove the car lines to University ave. extended. In the latter case Mifflin st. would be widened. After a study of the situation Mr. Bartholomew reports:

"University ave. would be extended from Gorham st., 100 feet wide, to Washington ave., in the vicinity of Henry st. In view of this adequate width of extension, its present width of 90 feet west of Gorham st., the fact that it now carries a car line west of Park st., the need of workable traffic regulations at Mifflin, State and Carroll sts., the inadequate width of State st., and the impracticability of recommending its immediate widening, it is therefore proposed that the street car lines now on State st. be removed and placed on University avenue when the extension is made.

'While it may seem that the removal of the street car lines from State st. would prove detrimental to the present commercial development, such would not be the case. State st., for a part of its length, near the business district, is a well-established commercial street and will always remain such. Its location, connecting the state university with the capitol square, and the district which it bisects, are two important reasons to assure the continued success of commercial enterprises on this street. The widening of State st. should be delayed for a period of years until such time as the majority of the buildings have conformed with the new line, and thus greatly reduce the cost of widening. In the interim, University ave. should be extended and the street car lines removed."

The connecting of South Madison with the city, by means of a street running along side of the Northwestern tracks across Lake Monona Bay, is suggested. In this matter, Mr. Bartholomew state:

"If Oregon and Maple sts. are connected and extended north paralleling the Northwestern road tracks across Lake Monona to a connection with S. Hamilton st., it would create a much needed thoroughfare. At present South Madison is somewhat inaccessible by reason of long detours required around Lake Monona. The proposed connection would open up the southern territory for suitable development."

Mr. Bartholomew's plan is not one which he expects Madison will put into effect virtually over night. It is one which he believes will cover a period of fifty years, but as the city makes the improvements they should be made using the finally adopted suggestions as their basis for action. It will be a tremendous expense to do one-tenth of what the report calls for, but to spread this expense over a long period the charges will be easily met.

"With its future assured and possessing broad city planning powers, it behooves the city in the interest of public economy and systematic growth to plan intelligently for its development," Mr. Bartholomew said. "The proposed comprehensive street plan, if adopted, will do as much to insure a uniform distribution of population by making all areas in and near the city easily accessible."

"In considering the proposed recommendations for street widenings and openings, it must be borne in mind that they are made as a guide for the city's future growth 50 years hence. It is not expected that the city will make these improvements simultaneously, or even undertake all of them within the very near future. If, however, the city should have a comprehensive street system to meet its ultimate traffic need, it is necessary that a definite policy be adopted, based on future growth, and one that will be susceptible of gradual accomplishment. While it may seem that the major street plan recommends a considerable number of widenings and openings, close observation of development will reveal that a large portion of these improvements can be made without involving great property damages. Fortunately, too, the areas just beyond the city limits are unplatted, which offers a splendid opportunity for true city planning."

Democrats Regain Control of Kentucky; Lead Maryland; Hylan Winner by 400,000

Republicans Swept Out of Power in One State in Tuesday's Elections; Hylan Swamps Opposition; Wets Favored Over Dry Supporters

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — One state, Kentucky, has passed from Republican to Democratic control as a result of yesterday's elections as shown in returns available here this morning.

In Maryland, where the entire lower house of the legislature and 13 out of 27 members of the senate were elected Democrats increased their control in both houses.

In Kentucky the Democrats regained control of the state legislature lost to the Republicans two years ago and claimed 53 out of 100 members of the lower house and 19 out of 36 seats in the senate. Returns for two senatorial districts were incomplete this morning. Mrs. Mary Flannery, Catlettsburg, had apparently won the honor of being the first woman to be elected to the Kentucky legislature.

New Jersey Republicans claimed to have elected 41 assemblymen out of a total of 60 seats contested and asserted the party line-up in the senate would stand as it did last year—15 Republican and six Democrats.

The "Wet and Dry" issue played a prominent role in that state, the Repulbcans standing for strict enforcement of the state prohibition act while the Democrats favored its modification or repeal.

Only one governorship hinged on yesterday's balloting, Virginia electing State Senator E. L. Trinkle, Dem., by a large majority over Henry W Anderson, Rep.

The voters of Ohio apparently were heavily for the soldiers' bonus proposal announcement being made by Secty. of State Smith that in his opinion it would be carried by 500,000. The bonus proposal would call for an amendment to the state constitutio nwhich would authorize the issuance of state bonds up to $25,000,000 out of which Ohio veterans would be paid $10 for each month in the service, total payments to any man not exceeding $250.

Fatal election riots occrred in Kentucky, the centers of disturbance being in Breathitt and Estill counties and in the city of Louisville. Ten persons are reported to have been killed and nearly a score wounded.

Hylan Sweeps New York

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Democratic candidates headed by Mayor John F. Hylan, made a clean sweep of the principal city and county officers in yesterday's municipal election the mayor receiving the unprecedented pluraliay of 417,986. The complete vote was:

Hylan 754,874.

Henry H. Curran, Rep., 336,888.

Jacon Panken, Socialist 83,209.

Mayor Hylan's plurality is the largest ever received by a Democratic candidate for any office in this city and is comparable only with President Harding's plurality of 436,471 in the presidential election last year. Approximately 95 per cent of the city's 1,263,940 registered voters which included 447,05 women, went to the polls.

In every borough the coalition candidates went down under an avalanche of democratic votes.

Incomplete returns today indicated that the Democrats had gained many seats in the New York state assembly. They gained five seats up state and many more in New York City.

Returns from 135 assembly districts show the election of 93 Republicans, 40 Democrats and at least two Socialists. The present assembly is composed of 119 Republicans, 28 Democrats and two Socialists, one seat having been made vacant by the expulsion of Henry Jaeger, Socialist.

Miss Marguerite L. Smith of New York, Rep., the only woman member of the 1921 legislature was defeated by a Democrat.

Wet Candidate Wins

BUFFALO — Frank X. Schwab, Rep., running on a platform asking amendment of the Volstead act to permit beer and wine, was elected mayor today by a majority of 2,563 over Mayor George S. Buck, also a Republican. Mr. Schwab said in his campaign that a vote for him would be a protest against prohibition laws.

Cleveland for City Manager.

CLEVELAND, O.—Fred Kohler, former chief of police, running as an independent republican candidate, was elected mayor of Cleveland over Mayor William S. Fitzgerald, republican.

The city manager plan charter amendment is said to have gone over by a vote of 2 to 1. It is said Cleveland is the largest city in the country to adopt the city manager plan.

Carrel at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI—George Carrel, republican candidate for mayor, won an easy victory, defeating Dr. Charles L. Benifield, democrat, and Judge Joseph B. Kelly, independent.

Sunday Movies Barred.

MATTOON, Ill.—Movies and other forms of theater entertainment on Sunday will be prohibited here as a result of Tuesday's municipal election which decided against the question, "Shall moving pictures or theatricals or musical entertainments be permitted on Sunday?" by a majority of more than 1,300 votes.

Democrat Wins Again.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—George D. Lunn, democrat, was re-elected mayor of Schenectady for a fourth term.

Adopts Manager Plan.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo.—Grand Junction adopted an amendment to its charter providing for the city manager system.

Shank Wins Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS — Samuel L. Shank, Rep., was elected mayor by the largest plurality ever given a candidate for that office in the city election held here yesterday according to unofficial returns. Returns give Shank a plurality of 23,450 over B. M. Ralston, Democrat.

Pre-Armistice Day Program On Wednesday

A preliminary Armistice day program will be the feature of the meeting of the Randall Parent-Teacher association, which will he held Wednesday at 3:30, in the auditorium of the Randall school. Patriotic exercises will be given by the pupils of Miss Marian Jones and a song under community leadership. Mrs. Howard Slyvester will read Kipling's Recessional, and Mrs. E. M. Gilbert will talk on The Value of Pictures in the Schoolroom, and an art exhibit which is to be held at the Randall school Nov. 22. A special invitation has been issued to mothers of children under school age and the work of the pre-school day will be discussed by Dr. Dorothy E. Mendenhall. The pre-school day is to be held at the Randall school Dec. 8. The second grade, with Mrs. Todd, teacher, leads in attendance.

Marines To Guard U. S. Mail

Heavily Armed Soldiers Will Battle Train Bandits

ALL CARS GUARDED

Drastic Action Follows Conference of Cabinet With Harding

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—With a declaration of "open war" by the postoffice department on the bandits responsible for the startling series of mail robberies, 1,000 U. S. marines were proceeding to duty today as guards of mail trains and trucks and at postoffices in 15 cities. They will be armed with pistols and sawed off hotguns and are under orders to shoot to kill if necessary to prevent looting of the mails. By tonight practically all trains carrying valuable mails will be under guard.

Announcement that he had arranged for the services of the marines with the secretary of the navy, was made by Postmaster General Hays late yesterday after the matter had been discussed at the cabinet meeting and Pres. Harding was said to have expressed approval of Mr. Hays' plan. The Marines later are to be replaced by a special force recruited for the postal service.

Mr. Hays announced that investigation of the recent New York robbery had resulted in suspension from the service of three high postoffice officials there on the ground that the robbery "should have been and could have been prevented."

Badger Grain Will Be Exhibited at Expo

Wisconsin grain is to be represented at the Grain and Hay show in Chicago Nov. 26 to Dec. 3, at the International Livestock Exposition, E. D. Holden, of the agronomy department of the University of Wisconsin announces. Exhibits from this state will include corn, soybeans, field peas, clover seed, barley and oats.

According to Mr. Holden, in charge of the Badger exhibit, Wisconsin has an excellent standing as a hay state. The first year of the show she took the sweepstakes with her showing of the product. Last year Wisconsin alfalfa and timothy took first places. A new features of the grain show this year will be the Junior Corn Contest. The boys' and girls' corn clubs of the state are planing to show exhibits that will offer strong competition for the prizes.

U. S. and Canada Try To Cut Liquor Running

WASHINGTON — American and Canadian prohibition officials have entered into a "gentleman's agreement" designed to reduce smuggling of liquor across the border to a minimum, it was announced today at federal prohibition hearquarters.

Bandits Try To Rob Bank at Cuba City

Blast Vault Walls With Dynamite; Flee Without Loot

CUBA CITY, Wis.—Five bandits made a daring but fruitless attempt to rob the State bank of Cuba City, Tuesday. A man living above the bank was aroused by the blast of the safe blowing and telephoned to the electric light plant. The lights in the bank were switched on from the power house and the bandits were seen to flee in a waiting auto.

The bandits took advantage of a dance in town Monday night to cover up their movements. They came to town with other out of town cars.

About 2 o'clock in the morning they gained entrance to the bank by forcing a rear window open. The vault of the bank is built into a three foot brick wall. The yeggs used dynamite to blow away the bricks from the combination door of the vault. The explosion aroused the tenant on the second floor of the bank, who telephoned to the power house. The police arrived shortly after the bandits had fled.

Detroit Again Votes for M.O.; Name Couzens

Present Mayor Reelected and City Railways to Be Extended

(By the Associated Press)

DETROIT—Again endorsing the city administration's municipal ownership program, Detroit voters re-elected Mayor James Couzens at yesterday's election by nearly 2 to 1. By about the same ratio, a charter amendment under which the Detroit United Railway would be forced to vacate Fort st. and a part of Woodward ave., two principal thoroughfares, to make way for municipally owned street railway lines, was passed.

Final returns showed a proposal to authorize the city to acquire and operate trackless trolley busses carried by a substantial margin.

Kalamazoo elected Mrs. Lou Henshaw a member of the new city commission, while Jackson voted against a return to the aldermanic form of government.

Business Executives Meet for Discussion

The first meeting of the class of business executives, arranged through the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, was held last evening at the Association of Commerce. More than 50 Madison business executives have enrolled for the class and the limit is now reached and others cannot be taken in for this series of evening class lectures. Arrangements may be made, if there is a sufficient demand, for an additional class. The purpose of the lectures is to discuss some of the fundamental problems of business management. A. E. Swanson, who will discuss business organization and management, an industrial engineer of Chicago, will be in Madison on Tuesdays and present his phases of the subjects to be treated. Other lecturers for the course are V. H. Pelz, Willis Wisler, H. W. Sweeney, L. D. Herrold and J. B. Reed. Ten lectures will comprise the course.

CHICAGO—Twenty deputy sheriffs were assigned to the office of State's Atty. Crowe to aid him in his "clean up campaign" in Chicago.

Mastodon's Jaw Found Near Madison, Weighs 100 Pounds

Above is a photograph of the upper jaw of a mastodon, which was unearthed by a dredging crew in the town of Rutland, near Madison, last week, and removed to Stoughton, where it is on exhibition. The upper jaw weighs more than 100 pounds. One of the teeth can be seen projecting down from the jaw. The tooth measures six and one-half inches across.

The belief of skeptics was put to rout by Prof. M. F. Guyer and Prof. George Wagner, of the University of Wisconsin, who declare that the bones are without doubt those of a mastodon. The top of the skull was found in a marshy district and was buried about 15 feet. It is roughly estimated that it has been buried for 100,000 years. Guy Moore, foreman of the dredging crew, has expressed his desire to send it to the University of Indiana.

$35,823 Of Building Fund Quota Raised

Merchants Respond Eagerly in University Memorial Campaign

"Madison merchants are responding splendidly," said Emerson Ela, chairman of the Union Memorial drive today. "The average of pledges has been between $100 and $750."

Mrs. Anna M. Vilas has given $1000 and there were two $500 pledges in today's report. The drive is gathering momentum every day and the workers expressed the belief that the result would exceed $100,000. More men are needed, and it is hoped more will respond to help in canvassing. Today's report of $10,701 brings the total to $35,823.

"Every person in business in Madison should feel it a privilege rather than a duty to contribute to this cause," said Louis Hirsig, Madison business man, in a short statement endorsing the University Memorial Union campaign.

William Conklin, another business man, said:

"The citizens of Madisn should look upon the campaign for Union Memorial funds as one of their greatest opportunities to serve and contribute to a good cause."

Justice M. B. Rosenberry, of the state supreme court, has given his endorsement to the campaign.

Beer Not to Flow Freely, Smith Says

Dry Commissioner Believes Congress Will Soon Ban Product

Brewers in Wisconsin will have to obtain state permits before being allowed to manufacture beer for medicinal purposes, W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner, decided today. These permits will be in addition to those authorizing manufacture and sale of near-beer by the de-alcoholizing process. Applications will be mailed out to the breweries of the state today, and manufacture held up until state authorization is granted. Each application must be accompanied by approval of the district attorney of the county in which the brewery is located, and by a fee of $10.

Prescription of beer, now authorized by state and federal law, will not have a wide-spread effect in Wisconsin, according to W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner. He believes congress will soon legislate against use of the product for medicinal purposes, and that restriction by prohibition officials will limit its use.

Federal regulations governing doctors, druggist and manufacturers in their handling of beer, will in all likelihood be adopted by the state officials, and enforced in cooperation with the federal agents, Mr. Smith says.

ELECTED ON PLATFORM TO STOP STREET CARS; ALSO IN SPOONING

(By the Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio.— A man who has lived in Youngstown only three months and whose platform provided for disconstinuance of street car service and turning the streets over to jitney busses yesterday was elected mayor over candidates backed by the major party organizations. He is George L. Oles, who came in from the country established a residence in a hotel and carried on an eccentric advertising campaign without the support of any particular element or organization.

Other "planks" in Oles' platform included permitting "spooning" in city parks, dismissing the entire police force "if it doesn't mend its ways" and a promise to turn his salary over to charity.

The women's vote is believed to have been responsible for his election.

The Theater

"Sentimental Tommy" is Story for Grownups and Children

A picture for young and old alike—that is the description that may be applied to Paramount's screen version of Sir James M. Barrie's "Sentimental Tommy," which will be the feature at the Majestic Theatre for three days beginning tomorrow. It is doubtful that many grownup exist who haven't a fond membery of Tommy's imagination and practically all of the youngsters today have read about him at one time or another. It gives many episodes showing Tommy's flights of imagination which are humorous and wholesome.

AT THE STRANR

Seena Owen, Louis Bennison, and Marguerite Snow in "Lavender and Old Lace" will be shown at the Strand Theatre for four days starting today. The story is that of Mary Ainslie who has waited thirty years for her fiance, always keeping a light burning in the window to guide him home. As special added attractions there will be shown pictures of the "Union Memorial Campaign Parade," a "Snub" Pollard comedy and a nature scenic study "The Barefoot Boy."

AT THE ORPHEUM

Dave Harris and his seven syncopators, Lulu Coates and her dancing Crackerjacks, Robbins Family, Cleveland and Dowry, Hugh Johnston, Jess and Dell, and Pathe News Topics of the Day films, make up the present vaudeville bill at the Orpheum. For anniversary week offering, this bill would be hard to improve on. Starting tomorrow night, the Orpheum vaudeville program will have quite a novelty offering in Tarzan, considered the sensation of the season. Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin in "Visions of 1970" Bartram and Sexton, sunny southern smiles and songs, Bob Fisher and Jules Lloyd, two shades of Burnt Cork; Al Ross and Olga Foss, a singing and instrumental novelty offering and Cooke and Valdare, the Versatile Girl and the Huck Finn complete the bill, together with Pathe News and Aesop's Fables films.

AT THE PALACE

Against a background of society idleness and privolty, a realistic story of shattered lives and human frailty is unfolded in "The Vice of Fools," an Alice Joyce Vitagraph special production, which will be shown at the Palace theater starting today. Housewarmings, parties, games, teas—all these empty pleasures—form a dramatic contrast and foil to the human narrative which is told simply and movingly against such a setting.

Badger Municipal Bonds Sold Total 8 Million

WASHINGTON—Recent sales of municipal bonds in 13 states, have totaled over $60,000,000 and in addition $34,000,000 of the securities have been offered for sale according to statistics by the National Employment conference. In addition $10,000,000 in state bonds have been sold and a like amount offered for sale. These figures were compiled in connection with studies made of the possibility of hastening public works as a measure of relieving unemployment. The largest state bond sale was Illinois, of $5,000,000 for highways. The total for 13 states of municipal and township bonds recently sold or offered for sale include: Michigan, $11,277,500; Wisconsin, $8,671,000.

Third Music Memory Contest

(A movement to acquaint Madison with the best music, through a contest in naming selections from hearing them. Open to everyone without fee or restrictions.)

Selection No. 9—Marche Slav, by Peter Ilitsch Tchaikovski. (Born Dec. 25, 1840, at Wotkinsk, Russia; died Nov. 5, 1893, in Petersburg.)

Probably in no other instance is the character of a nation shown in its music as in that of Russia. The two outstanding features are sadness and orientalism—depression and a love of showiness, that to the western mind seems somewhat barbaric. The sadness, however, is not entirely due to conditions brought about by its former autocratic government; it owes some of it to the fact that its musical material has been influenced by its church music, which is founded on the old church modes.

A Solitary Man

The remarkable thing about Tchaikovski (Tchai, like chi in child) is that there is so little that is remarkable to say about him. The son of a mining engineer, and destined at first for the service of the government, he was not precocious like Schubert, Mozart, Mendelssohn and many other great musicians, and his musical endowment revealed itself quite late in life. Nor did his fame and reputation become established with a rush; indeed, he was nearly forty before, after many disappointments, real success crowned his efforts. By nature rather shy and retiring, he shunned more and more as time went on the society of men, and his great-hearted benefactress, who acted for years as his Maecenas, and with whom he corresponded faithfully enough, never saw him face to face. So also the circle of friends to whom he showed his new compositions gradually dwindle away to nothing, and at last the first person to see his new work was the engraver in the publishing house.

This may partly account for the fact that there is no clearly marked "progression" in the composer's work, no possibility of dividing his life into periods, or of classifying his compositions by modes or styles. To this voluntary isolation may also be laid a certain unevenness in his work, for genius and criticism are brothers.

Despite such unevenness, there is enough and to spare in Tchaikovski's legacy to the world of music to entitle him to his genuine popularity. He is at his best, and most inspired, when he strikes the note of passionate despair which runs through the philosophy of the Slav. It is for this reason, perhaps, that we feel Tchaikovski to be the most genuine Russian of all the great composers. None but a Russian, and none but this Russian, could have composed the mournful elegiac lament of his monumental piano trio, the poignant passion of his orchestral fantacia, Francesca da Rimini, or the sombre finale of the great sixth symphony, wrongly called Pathetic. The mood is clearly tragedy, not pathos, and its tonal statement is one of the most profoundly moving passages in all music.

The Composer in Music

One might almost say that the Marche Slav is an epitome of Tchaikovski's music, and is undoubtedly one of his most popular and characteristic numbers.

It opens with a haunting sad theme, founded on the descending minor scale, harmonized on a tonic pedal point—a device of which Tchaikovski was very fond and which no composer has used to greater effect. This is followed immediately by a second theme in the nature of a trumpet fanfare, so entirely different from the first. All of a sudden he combines the two in a most remarkable manner. These two themes are developed and form the greater part of the material used, but towards the end the composer introduces the Russian National Anthem and thus closes the composition. Tchaikovski names it a Marche Slav, meaning that it typifies Slavic music, but it does more, as in it one can also read much of the Russian (or Slavic) life and history.

(Note:—Explanatory notes on the eight preceding selections will be found in Wednesday papers of the past four weeks. Material on the tenth selection, "Prolog, from I Pagliacci," will be printed in next Wednesday's paper.) Copies of all issues may be found at the newspaper office.

High School Will Observe Armistice Day

Classes to March to Graves of Soldeirs; May Buy Flowers

BY RAY

The Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors of the Madison high school assembled this morning and Principal Volney G. Barnes and Supt. T. W. Gosling talked on Armistice Day and on Good English week.

"Armistice Day is not set aside like other celebrations as a day of play, but a day for all laborers to celebrate the end of the great war," said Mr. Barnes. "In Washington, a soldier's body will be buried. The corpse is unidentified.

"It will probably be required that students come to school half of the day. We will have a program which will begin at about 10 o'clock and if the weather permits, we will march in a body out to the homes of those who gave their life in that war. If we cannot arrange it this way, we will send out a delegation. This group will consist of a pupil from each session or study room in the building, and they will represent their rooms by making a trip to the graves of those soldiers."

A collection to buy flowers for those who are to be remembered is under way. It is hoped to raise $150 to buy 150 dozen carnations. In the march the seniors will lead the group, followed by juniors, sophomors and freshmen. The students will be in charge of their study room teachers, and will be lead by the High School band if possible. The parade will form on Wisconsin avenue.

Mr. Gosling talked on how Good English ought to be observed.

William Bross Lloyd Admitted to Bail

SPRINGFIELD, Ills.—William Bross Lloyd and seven other members of the Communist Labor party, convicted of plotting the overthrow of the government in 1919, were ordered admitted to bail by Justice Carter of the supreme court today. Lloyd, reputed millionaire, was ordered admitted to bail of $3,000. Arthur Proctor and Ludwig Lore were ordered released on $3,000 bail and five others on bail of $2,500 each. They are Karl Sandberg, Perry Shipman, N. J. Christensen, Samuel Ash and John Vogel.

Louisville Nominee For Mayor is Arrested

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—W. Overton Harris, democratic nominee for mayor of Louisville, started election day today early with a ride to police headquarters in a patrol wagon. With Mr. Harris on the ride was Dr. H. E. Mechling, democratic nominee for sheriff, and several other men. Mr. Harris was slated at police headquarters on charges of disorderly conduct. Late last night police went to the hotel to arrest men alleged to have been brought to the city to intimidate voters today. Hotel officers remonstrated and were arrested.

Triangle fraternity and its guests will be entertained at an outing party and dance at the cottage of Prof. and Mrs. Ray Owen, on Friday evening.

Adolph Zukor presents
SIR JAMES M. BARRIE'S
"Sentimental Tommy"
with GARETH HUGHES,
MABEL TALIAFERRO
and MAY McAVOY

Every dawn was to Tommy a rose-colored glory. Every day, a golden adventure.

For in his world of dreams he thought himself a knight of olden times, and treated even the painted lady of Thrums like a queen.
And the lonely little lass who called this woman "mother," and wanted so hard to be respectable—Imagine what SHE thought of Tommy!
If you would call YOUR old dreams back again see on the screen this story that has thrilled a million hearts.

The Symbol of a Woman's Faith from the Story by MYRTLE REED

With Seena Owen
Marguerite Snow
and Louis Bennison

On the day that she bade her lover good-bye, she placed a lamp in her window to guide him back to her.
And then, through the years she waited, patient, faithful, true,—for the man who never came; waited with a heart full of trust and devotion.
Day and night the lamp burned with a clear, unfaltering flame. So, too, burned her love, serene and strong.
Such faith as Mary Aainslie's is rare indeed. It is the theme of a book which has charmed and delighted thirty million readers.
And the fascinating photo-drama which has been made from this world-read novel will charm and delight many millions more.

The Efficient Woman

We hear a great deal nowadays about the efficiency of women. In the novels of fifty years ago, who ever heard a woman praised for her executive ability, force and energy, in the sense that it is used today? The frail, delicate, helpless ideal of womanhood has passed away. How is it possible to measure up to the ideals of modern womanhood? In the first place, we must keep our bodies in the best possible condition.

Thousands of women have succeeded through daily baths, exercise in the fresh air, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of female weakness.—Adv.

The Golden Girl

A STORY OF GYPSY LOVE

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

ILONA IS MISLEAD.

At the touch of his arm on her body she wept again, softly. Entirely nonplussed, Miguel spoke to her again in a gentle voice, and at last stella turned and faced him, her dark eyes still filled with tears.

"Why do you bother about someone you long ago ceased to care for?" she inquired. "What is it to you if I cry or if I am unhappy, Miguel? I know that you no longer care for me, that was over months ago, and I have done my best to accept things. Then why do you come to me and cause me pain by reviving old memories this way? There was a time when you would have died rather than cause me to weep. And when the touch of your arms on my body were not pitying ones." Here she looked into his face reproachfully.

Don Miguel kept his arm around her as he tried to explain to the best of his ability just how much he admired her, and hoped for her happiness. But Stella was inconsolable. Over and over again she wailed to him of her shattered dreams, her broken heart, and her unhappy life. "My dear girl," said Don Miguel in an astonished voice, "I cannot make out what you mean by all this broken life business. I have never harmed you, as you well know, neither have I lured you with false promises. That you cared for me and I for you at one time, and kissed and walked with each other at times is no reason for turning on me and denouncing me so furiously. You are as good a girl today as you ever were before I kissed you, and I never dreamed at the time that you were taking my attentions more seriously than I was accepting yours. If I had known I most certainy should never have permitted you to waste any time in my company, my dear."

"Aye," sobbed Stella, anew. "You men are all alike. You lead us on, and then feign surprise when we take your seriously. You're heartless, every one of you."

Unseen by either of them, a shadowy figure passed by the outside of the tent, and seeing Miguel and Stella were arm in arm, as it appeared, flew by, with startled eyes. It was the Princess Ilona, on her way back from her solitary ramble.

At sight of the couple, so deeply engrossed in each other, she felt her heart contract, and her legs tremble a little. It was so sudden a thing to come upon, especially after her talk with Miguel in the afternoon. He had certainly acted to her, for if he were on such intimate terms with Stella he must have known all along what was the reason for her dislike for herself, Ilona. What a deceiver he was, after all. No wonder Stella hated her, if she cared for Miguel as much as it seemed from the sight that had greeted Ilona as she sped by the tent. How did Don Miguel dare to follow her when he was obviously attached to this girl? Ilona walked on beyond her own tent, lost in thought. The cool winds of night were grateful on her heated brow, and yet once or twice she shivered as though from cold.

At the end of a half hour she saw Miguel come out of Stella's tent and walk swiftly away in the direction of the wood that had shared their happy laughter before sundown. The wood she had herself just been dressing in, lulled by all the softness of the southern night.

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

It was of this story about the haunted tower and the old professor, who was killed Professor Craig was thinking, when he heard a muffled tramp on the balcony outside. He took his pipe from his mouth to listen and the sound was repeated.

"Of course there is no one out there. I only imagine it because I have been writing about ghosts. The sound is probably the flap of an owl's wing or the wind whistling under the roof of the tower."

But there it was again, soft, but as distinct as could be with each footstep sounding clearly.

"I am sure I locked the tower door after me, so it can be no one coming up the stairs," he thought He listened again, but the sounds were not repeated, and he was just dozing off, having forgotten all about the old astrologer who haunted the tower, when he felt a draught on the back of his neck and turning to see where it came from, he saw the old professor, or his ghost, whichever it might be, walking toward him on its hands and feet through the open door.

Not being a believer in ghosts he rubbed his eyes to see if he were not mistaken, or seeing queer things through the clouds of smoke which were encircling his head.

But no, the old man was walking straight towards him on his hands and feet. While the professor was looking the old man raised himself to an upright position and helped himself to an apple from the dish on the writingtable without paying the least attention to Prof. Craig.

Under the droplight he could see the ghostly professor's long beard and spectacles as plainly as day. He waited to see no more, but jumped from his chair and flew out of the door, knocking over two or three objects that were standing in the darkened passageway outside and sending them rolling bumpety, bump down the long stairs.

Billy, hearing the racket outside, ran to see what was up and in so doing bumped into the professor who was holding on to the railing at the head of the stairs, listening to the bumps of the persons he had just knocked down the circular stairs.

Billy's unexpected butt knocked him, too, down the stairsand he went rolling after the persons who had gone before.

There were now four persons on that rolling stairs, rolling and bumping against the wall and over each other as one or the other took an extra turn in trying to right himself as he rounded the curves

Presently a crash followed by a bounding, pounding, sound was heard as the professor began his tumble down the stairs It was so dark that no one cound see his hand before his face and the stairs so steep and crooked that they made the person falling stand first on their head and then on their feet, and before they could catch hold of anything to right themselves they would roll still farther and farther down through the inky blackness until at last one of the first to fall went Bang! against the outer door with such force that it flew open and he rolled out into the lawn, where the other three joined him (Tomorrow you will hear the end of this escapade)

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married lady of twenty-two summers. The other evening we were invited out to lunch at a public meeting. We took sandwiches, as we all were requested to, and as we were eating at a table with twelve seated, a lady passed my husband some cake and he refused. Later she asked him again, saying, "Take some; I made it." So he did, and when he had hardly tasted it he said, "Yes, and it's fine, too."

She is a stranger to us, but we have seen her a number of times. I am not the least bit jealous in any way, but this didn't sound right to me. When I make pastries, he never says they are good, and when I ask him he only says, "Oh, it isn't so bad." I absolutely know my pies and cakes are all made as good as the one this lady made, because when I was at the age of sixteen I was a cook in a first-class restaurant. I have also kept house and cooked for several men and women who all said I was an all around cook. I don't like to be made a "goat" of in public by his showing his country ignorance, if he did.

Do you think he did the right thing in talking that way in my presence and slighting me at home when I am his wife and she is another man's wife?

NEVER AGAIN.

Courtesy should begin at home, of course, but since your husband forgets to be thoughtful and to cheer you by speaking of your good cooking, you should be thankful that he showed appreciation to the other lady in a courteous way.

The other lady should have passed the cake to both of you, but perhaps she, like so many women, is more interested in men than women and as a result puts herself out to please men. Do not resent this in her, because it is a common failing.

Men are pretty apt to take their wives' work for granted. Your husband expects you to get up good meals for him and he does not feel it is any more necessary for him to admire the results of your cooking than for you to admire him for earning money when he gives it to you. He is only teasing you when he says, "It isn't so bad."

Your husband did not show "country ignorance" (whatever that may be) when he told the lady her cake was fine. He was merely polite. You must not notice such little things or your married life will not be happy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in an awfully bad habit of biting my nails. Please advise me what to do for it. Also tell me what to do for a bad breath.

ALL BY MYSELF.

A young woman who bites her nails should go to a physician for treatment, because this habit is almost always the result of an unhealthy physical condition that needs special care.

To say "don't," and that one should not disfigure the finger tips is but a waste of breath. No person who does it is aware of the moments they are biting until a pain inflicted by the teeth makes itself felt. By that time the damage is done.

Both grown people and children are sometimes aided in breaking this habit by dipping the finger tips into aloes. They are very bitter tasting, and usually one who has had it on his lips once or twice remembers not to repeat the dose. Oddly enough, a grown person offends longer than a little one.

I would certainly advise you to talk to a physician about your bad breath. Probably the trouble is caused because you are not eating correctly, or it may be that your teeth need attention.

BREAD AND ROLLS

Swiss Rolls— Scald a cupful of milk with two tablespoonfuls of butter and one tablespoonful of sugar and one teaspoonful salt. When lukewarm add a half cake of compressed yeast dissolved in a little water. With this blend thoroughly about three-quarters of a quart of flour. Let it rise. When light put it in the icebox for three or four hours or overnight.

When wanted roll it out on a well floured board about half an inch thick. Spread with butter and roll up like jelly cake. Cut slices three-fourths of an inch thick. Place these in pans, leaving plenty of space between so that they will not touch when they rise. Do not keep them too warm. When more than doubled bake in a quick oven about twenty minutes.

Bread Chips— Into a quart of flour, graham, white, or whole wheat, mix one tablespoonful of butter, one of salt, then add one and a quarter cupfuls of milk and water (half and half), or enough to make stiff dough.

Roll the mixture thin, fold it together twice, then roll again; fold again and roll thin. Mark it off with a pastry wheel into strip one-fourth of an inch wide and four or five inches long.

Bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes until cooked through and brittle, but not very brown.

Boston Brown Bread—One heaping coffee cup of corn, rye and graham meal. If the rye meal is not very fine use the rye flour instead. Sift all together thoroughly and beat well with two cups of molasses, two cups of sweet milk, one cup of sour milk, one dessert spoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt. Pour into a covered form, or pail, place in a kettle of cold water and boil four hours.

It will seem too thin, but will not be. Take the cover off and set into the oven a few minutes to dry a little, then turn out.

Scotch Oats Cake—To one cup of very fine oatmeal add a teaspoonful of salt and enough hot water to make a stiff dough. Sift some of the meal upon the moulding board and roll the dough out into a thin cake. Bake slowly on a griddle until thoroughly done.

SUGGESTIONS

The burner of your lamp needs boiling, if it fails to give a good, clear light. Take the lamp apart, remove wick, and then boil both burner and wick in hot water, into which has been thrown some washing soda. Thoroughly clean and dry every part, put in wick, trim it, fill the lamp with oil and you will find it will burn as well as ever. If the wick be too large for the burner, and does not turn up readily, draw a few threads from the middle of the wick instead of cutting down the sides. Then the wick will not ravel.

One teaspoonful of ammonia in a quart of water will remove all grease and dirt from brushes and combs. Rinse, shake and dry in the sun or near the fire.

$179.50 for Every Man, Woman and Child in Madison

Into the trade of Madison the University of Wisconsin pours every year on the average $7,180,000, approximately $179.50 for every one of Madison's 40,000 inhabitants.

6,400 student whose homes are not in Madison bring $700 each, a total of $4,480,000.

1360 University employees whose homes are in Madison and who spend most of their income at home draw from the University payroll $2,300,000.

For Materials and supplies purchased in Madison the University itself spends $300,000.

Contractors doing University construction work expend in Madison for supplies and labor at the very lowest estimate $100,000.

Take up your pencil and figure it up for yourself—$7,180,000 which Madison would be without but for the University.

What Does All This Mean to You?

As a resident of Madison, Your welfare is indissolubly linked with the welfare of Madison. What comes to Madison comes to you. What profits Madison profits you. $7,180,000 means bigger business, better stores, more prosperous banks, in fact, the thriving community of which you are so proud, of which you are a part.

Today the University of Wisconsin is embarked upon the greatest project in its history—the erection by voluntary contribution of a $1,000,000 Memorial Union Building. Meeting the University's need for a center for University life and activities and standing as a fitting memorial to the 5,000 University men and women who offered their lives for their country, it will be indeed a structure to which every resident of Madison may well point with pride.

Madison's Share in This Achievement is $100,000.00

This is your first opportunity to express your realization and appreciation of what the University means to Madison—and to you.

This $100,000 must be pledged this week. $7,180,000 annually for Madison—$100,000 now from Madison.

What is your share?

Wheat Prices Rise; Buying Takes Jump

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Free buying ascribed to leading interests here and in Omaha had a bullish effect on the wheat market today. Offerings were light and prices readily advanced despite snow and rain over part of the territory Bulls were contending that primary receipts this week might not exceed six million bushels as against 8,000,000 last week and recent totals of 9,[illegible],000. Opening quotations which ranged from ⅝ cents off to ¼ cent up, with December 1.04¾@½, and May 1.09½@1.10 were followed by a slight sag and then by up[illegible] all around to well above yesterday's finish.

Stock Market Featured By Trade In Oils

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Resumption of trading on the stock exchange after the election day recess was characterized by further professional buying of oils and equipments, the remainder of the list recording no material changes. Royal Dutch and Houston Oil ganied 1¼ and 1⅝ points respectively and Baldwin Locomotive and Haskell and Barker were one point higher with Lackwanna and United Fruit. Specialties eased slightly on further pressure against food and rubber issues. Local utilities were ignored. German Marks were firmer.

Oils, steels, rails and equipments led to further upward later although call money's advance to six percent invited occasional realizing. The close was strong. Bonds including liberty issues were irregular.

Waupaca and northern Wisconsin points. Sales: Very little wire inquiry demand and movement slow, market dull. Very few sales. Sacked Round Whites U. S. Grade No. 1, $1.60 to $1.70. Warehouse prices to growers bulk basis Haulings light. Demand and movement slow, market dull, litle change in prices. Bulk U. S. Grade No. 1 Round Whites quoted at Waupaca $1.25, at other important points prices ranged from $1.25 to $1.50.

Milwaukee—15 cars on track, warehouses full to capacity. Demand and movement draggy market weak and unsettled. Jobbing sales, round whites, U. S. Grade No. 1, 1.85 to $2.00, unclassified, $1.40 to $1.50.

There is a slight improvement in some sections over yesterday's quotations. The larger city markets report a strengthening market. This should in turn influence Wisconsin points.

CABBAGE

Cabbage, carlot shipments past 24 hours for the U. S. 91 cars, of which Wisconsin 16.

Appleton, Wis.—Demand and movement good, market steady. Bulk U. S. Grade No. 1 Danish Type f. o. b. Appleton mostly $30 per ton bulk. Fields in this district cleaned up. Greater portion of stock going into storage.

Somers, Wis.—Demand and movement fair, market fairly steady. Bulk U. S. Grade No. 1 Danish Type f. o. b. Somers $26 to $28 per ton bulk.

Milwaukee—Demand and movement moderate. Market fair. Jobbing sales, Holland variety 85 cents to $1.35 per basket.

Comment

Not many cars are being shipped at the present. Warehouses are taking all stock offered at prevailing market prices. Consuming markets report market strong on Wisconsin stock.

Music Critics Praise Playing of Vecsey

Ferenc Vecsey, the Hungarian violinist, who is to play in the university gymnasium Nov. 15, first appeared in America 14 years ago when as a boy protege he played in Carnegie hall in a white sailor suit with knee breeches. Ferenc Vecsey was then a boy of 12. Now he is a man of 28 and in spite of his many European triumphs still retains his boy-like simplicity of manner and a modest, unassuming demeanor. Last week Vecsey played in New York and critics accorded him even more praise than they did at his first appearance there when still a child.

The New York Sun says of him that he has "many of Kreisler's best methods and several of his most telling effects." The Globe compares his tone to the golden ring of Caruso's voice. Richard Aldrich says in the New York Times: "His technic is extremely brilliant and accurate. Mr. Vecsey's tone is powerful, full, warm, skillfully modified in expressive quality." The New York World had this to say, "His is a sweet tone, and his work is crisp and clean with many traces of Kreisleriana. The intonation is accurate and the technic sure." H. T. Finck wrote in the New York Evening Post, "Most proteges bloom early and then go to seed. A few continue to unfold new flowers. Joseph Hoffman was one of these; Ferenc Vecsey is another."

9 Wisconsin Jerseys Set Pace In Test

Milwaukee County Cow Tops List With Highest Butter Fat Average

Nine Wisconsin Jersey cows recently completed yearly records of production averaging over 500 pounds of butter fat each, according to production sheets filed with R. T. Harris, in charge of official testing in Wisconsin. Of the nine cows, Fewacres Gamboge Houpla, owned by F. D. Underwood of Milwaukee county, topped the list by giving 15,661 pounds of milk totalling 706.24 pounds of butter fat. For richness of milk, Pansy of Meadow Farm, owned by Ed. A. McGilvra of Sauk county, was "high cow," with an average fat test of nearly 7 per cent. K. T. Weigand, Manitowoc county, reported Ebony's Emblem Ebony, with 553.82 pounds fat and Lila's Emblem Lila, with 512.54 pounds of fat. Two Jerseys owned by G. E. and J. T. Washburn of Winnebago county, placed in the "500-class." Interested Marie gave 522.19 pounds of fat, and Jap's Miss Jumbo gave 500.15 pounds.

A Portage cow, J. and L.'s Beauty, owned by E. P. Tobie, produced 590.48 pounds of butter fat and 11,332 pounds of milk for a year's record. A Jersey owned by the University of Wisconsin, University Nora II., completed the "select list of nine" by producing 515.21 pounds of butter fat and 11,306 pounds of milk in one year.

Unknown is Brought To Native Land

Guns Fire Salute As Remains of Soldier Arrive at Washington

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Her progress up the Potomac river marked by periodic salutes usually accorded the president, the cruiser Olympia, brought to his home land today the unknown soldier, representative of thousands of American soldiers dead overseas.

The program designed to express the nation's honor for its war dead, began when the Olympia turned this morning into the Potomac. The battleship, North Dakota, dipped her ensign in salutation as her guns tolled welcome. As the cruiser proceeded toward her berth at the Washington Navy Yard, Fort Washington and Washington barracks signalled her passage, each with a salute of 21 guns.

The Olympia was scheduled to dock about 4 o'clock this afternoon. The casket will be given at the dock to the hero escort which will accompany it to Arlington tomorrow.

Armistice Day Observance.

At the request of congress, President Harding has proclaimed Nov. 11 as a national holiday, and asks that the day be observed in a manner fitting to the occasion. The school society in each school is requested to arrange a program of songs and other exercises suitable to the day. The songs might be those sung during the war: Keep the Home Fires Burning, The Long Long Trail, Over There, America, and others. Special attention should be given to ex-service men and women of the community; the parents and others invited. Speakers can be had from your own community, or from nearby cities or villages. The program should begin about 10:30, and at 11 o'clock, our time, which is 12 o'clock, Washington time, all should stand, face the east, and with bowed heads, honor the memory of the unknown soldier who is at that moment being buried in the National cemetery, at Arlington, Va. Some time should be given to the description of this event. Shall we all carry out this suggestion? Send me an outline of your exercises. Slyvanus Ames, county superintendent.

Miss Alice Hale is home from a visit with friends in Chicago.

Petitions were presented for street grading and arc light at the corner of Moline and South Academy Sts. Petition also presented for street light at the corner of North Division and East North Sts., which was ordered placed. A committee of three was appointed by the mayor to investigate the disposal of the Ford fire truck, to be replaced by a Stoughton fire truck. The committee consists of Dr. H. A. Keenan; Albert Burrull and Ross Hyland. The chief of police will have his office back of the council chamber, now utilized for the water works office, and the latter will have the present location of the chief, which will be connected with the electric light office by a communicating door. City Treasurer Chris Larson will have his office in the city hall on the second floor, where the city nurse was formerly located. He will collect taxes in the council chamber. John Kroken has platted his acreage adjoining Moline Park, which was accepted by resolution of the council. The grade on Patterson St. was accepted and it was also decided to borrow $5,000.

Case Weather

Case weather prevails only in tobacco growing sections of the state and nowhere else. It was case weather Monday night and yesterday and if it prevails till this morning farmers can remove the tobacco from the pole and start bundling the leaf. Some stripping and bundling the lead. Some stripping and bundling has already been done on a small scale to make room in the shed for machinery, that may have been left outdoors since the fall work, though in some instances the entire crop has been piled. The soft spell will enable the buyer to examine into the quality and color of the new crop and buying may begin, providing the producers and the packer can agree on the figure to be paid. Farmers are anxious to sell at remunerative figures only. Whether there will be the usual millions of dollars received for the 1921 tobacco is a question. All live in hopes.

Do Chores and Keep Fit Says Johnson

There is nothing like old-fashioned farm chores, and hard manual labor to keep state officials out of mischief, Henry Johnson, Wisconsin's treasurer for the past five terms, believes. His farmer-politician activities have kept him both in good health and in office longer than any other elective state official. A four acre farm near Madison is the home of Mr. Johnson, and affords him his opportunity to keep in close touch with nature. It is a model tract, with a truck garden, an orchard, a cow and chickens.

The Wisconsin treasurer manages to keep himself fit by putting in an hour before breakfast each morning tending to his farm animals, milking his cow, and taking care of his large garden. He repeats his performance in the evening, and says that he then has time for reading and other amusements. It is this plain life combined with a two mile walk to the capitol each morning, that keeps him in condition to take care of the state funds, Mr. Johnson feels.

Monahan and Trainor Whipped In Windup of Turner Hall Card

2 Local Men Drop Fights to Invaders

Leo Trainor Scores Kayo Over Schneider; Burns Whips Stevens

CAPITAL TIMES DECISIONS

Joey Sangor beat Eddie Trainor (6).

Young Brick shaded Jack Monohan (6).

Leo Trainor K. O. Young Schneider (2).

Bob Bricknell K. O. Ed. Sheer (6).

Jack Burns K. O. Bob Stevens (4).

Raining lightning-like jabs throughout a period of six rounds, and using excellent footwork to evade what few counter attacks his foe made, Sammy Sangor, Milwaukee bantam, scored a decisive ring victory over Eddie Trainor, Madison fighter, in the latter half of the double windup of Promoter Jack Boyds fistic card at Turner hall Tuesday night. Sangor showed his supremacy over the local man in every department and kept Trainor at bay most of the time. They played even during the initial round, feeling out each other. Sangor, however, took every round thereafter, Trainor landing only a half dozen good blows during the bout.

Sangor used right and left jabs, and used them so fast that he always found an opening. Trainor's defense was too slow to protect himself, and from all appearances it was only the bell, which ended the sixth round, that saved him from a knockout. He appeared groggy as the fifth ended, but he was still close to a flop at the termination of the encounter. Both men weighed in at 122.

Monohan met his Waterloo with Young Brick of Milwaukee. The South Madison mauler rushed, feinted, dodged and waited—but all in vain. He could not entice his man into range of his deadly left swing, and incidentally, he found a man who was his equal in dodging. Time after time he let fly a left or right which would have meant a kayo if it had landed. Brick, more steady and heady, watched Monohan's open style, and rushed on him at the critical time, punishing the local man severely occasionally, but most of the time scoring just enough of an advantage to give him a neat shade in most of the rounds.

Monohan led the fight at the bell, but when his rushes failed to result in bewilderment of his man, he settled down to measuring him for an opening. The first round was even. Both men missed frequently in the second. Brick stopped Jack's rushes and defled his bounces off the ropes. The second also was fairly even. Fash fighting had tired both and there was considerable holding in the third, which went to Brick by a shade.Once he rushed Monohan into the ropes and peppered him about the head.

Shortly after the fourth opened, Brick repeated. He landed a left, then a right, and as Monohan backed up, he tore after him, rushing him into the ropes. The session was Brick's, though Jack retaliated to a considerable degree as it ended. The fifth was again about even. The Madison man rushed with a little more success. Jack landed his best blows in this period, but Brick's return in the latter half, equalled the affair. Brick took the last round by a shade. Jack's only counting blow in this round came just as the bell stopped the hostilities.

Leo Trainor continued his good work in the semi of the card, when he knocked out Harry Schneider of Lodi after 35 seconds of fighting in the second round. Schneider never blinked an eye until he was picked up from the canvas. Trainor, using his characteristic volley of lefts, out classed his man in the initial session, and after shadow-boxing a few moments in the second, he whipped across a right to the head that spelled defeat for the Lodi contender.

Jack Burns, Madison, kayoed Bob Stevens of Baraboo in the fourth round of their scheduled six round encounter with a right swing to the face, which started a gusher from the fallen man's nose. Stevens was down twice before, once in the first and again in the third.

Elliott Holds Honors in Big Ten Battle

Scoring honors in the Big Ten title campaign to date belong to Alvah (Rowdy) Elliott, the heavy hitting Badger halfback. The official reckoning of points registered in actual conference engagements since the commencement of hostilities on Oct. 1, credits the Wisconsin speed merchant with a total of 42 points, representing seven touchdowns in three combats. That sterling gridiron warrior, Aubrey Devine, Iowa's superman, is a close runnerup, however, with 38. In accounting for his markers the famous Hawkeye quarterback performed a variety of thrillers. He rang up five touchdowns for 30 points and added eight more markers by booting goals following touchdowns.

Captain Aldrich of Yale has taken first position as individual scorer in major college football. He has deposed Captain Robertson of Dartmouth, scoring 76 points and Robertson 67.

Joey Sangor Beats Trainor With Storm Of Terrific Blows

Jeff Triumphs Over Mutt In Circus Act Feature of Ring Card

The feature bout of the evening was a li'l contest between Ed Sheer, who hereafter shall be known as Mutt, and his conqueror, Bob Bricknell, whom we will call Jeff. They met, per agreement, with Jack Boyd, in Boyd's ring, which Mutt thought must be a bullfighting arena, when he had to chase Jeff the circumference of the same to land a blow.

Fearing he would make Mutt angry, Jeff performed in gentlemanly style, petting the big man with his glove now and then to let Mutt know he was still in the ring. The crowd thought that Boyd had gone into the theatrical business. They played about on the canvas for two rounds and got pretty tired.

It took three men to get Jeff into shape for the third. While Mutt was resting, he took a drink from a green bottle—and he was never the same after that. Jeff thought he was Jack Dempsey in the fifth, when his glove got away from him and hit Mutt in the windbag. The gawky Mutt crumpled up on the floor in true prize-fight fashion, but arose at the count of nine. Jeff rushes back across the arena and hits him again in the same region, and again Mutt falls. Jeff smiles at the audience from his corner in appreciation. Then as Mutt rises again and Jeff struts back over the canvas to floor the big fellow a third time. The bell sounded at the count of seven and saved Mutt for another meeting.

Jeff thought he was beaten when Mutt persisted in chasing him early in the fight, but now he had blood in his eye (as well as all over his face) and he started chasing Mutt, whom he caught after one minute and 15 seconds of running. Then Mutt laid down for another nap and forgot to wake up in time to resume fighting. Jeff thought they were going to have to carry the fallen Mutt into the dressing room and grabbed his feet as the referee picked him up by the shoulders.

Staleys Meet Rock Island Team Sunday

CHICAGO—Rock Island's Independents, who tackle the Staleys at the Cub park Sunday, claim they have the fastest charging line in the pro football league. They are especially proud of their tackles, Healy of Dartmouth, and Travis of Missouri. The Staley tackles have outplayed every pair sent against them so far and there should be a battle royal. With the addition of Lou Usher to the eleven, the Staleys now have two tackles selected on the first all American eleven and another who received high mention.

Women's Hockey Team Play Two Games

In a close, evenly matched game, the sophomore women defeated the seniors by a score of 3-2 in the first of the inter-class hockey matches, played Saturday morning at Randall field. The juniors, in the second game, won from the freshmen, 7-4.

Special Train Service On Milwaukee for Game

A no-stop passenger train will be run between Milwaukee and Madison on the Milwaukee road, for the Michigan football game here Saturday, according to E. F. Immler, passenger agent, today. The special leaves Milwaukee at 10 a. m., arriving at Madison at 12:45. p. m. Returning, the train will be placed at Camp Randall, permitting those who wish, to board the train there. It will leave the city shortly after the game is over.

The train will be an all-steel, electric-lighted train, composed of first class coaches, dining cars and parlor cars. Dinner will be served immediately after the game and throughout the dinner hour.

Storm Great Hindrance to Varsity Team

Scrimmage Cautious to Prevent Injury; Field is Covered

With the change in weather that gradually led up to yesterday's snowfall, the Wisconsin team will be greatly handicapped in its preparation for the biggest home game of the season with Michigan on Saturday. If the snow continues, drills will be slowed up and scrimmage, if possible at all, will be engaged in with caution. Coach Richards will not take any chances on injuring the men in the last days before the contest.

Field Has Hay Cover

Camp Randall gridiron has been covered with hay which will probably not be removed until Saturday. This will keep the field partially dry. Football experts can look to Wisconsin's showing against Minnesota when they doubt the Badgers' ability to flash on a wet field. The field was a sea of water and mud in that game, but Wisconsin backs were undaunted and their sensational work woke up the Big Ten and put the Richardsmen in line for a Big Ten conference championship.

It is true that a slow, heavy field will work to the disadvantage of a forward line as light as Wisconsin's, but speed and aggressiveness are counted upon to offset this advantage just as they did in the Minnesota game. The kicking power of Michigan will be seriously hampered by a wet ball. While Steketee has at times averaged 50 yards in his punts during games, this would not be possible if the ball were slippery and hard to handle. He would also be unable to count by the field goal method to pull the game out of the fire as he did when the Wolverines beat Illinois, 3 to 0. Thus, it can be seen that the Badgers should at least be on even terms with their opponents if the field is slippery, and the speed of the backs will turn the scale towards Wisconsin if the grid is fairly fast.

Wolverines in Shape

Michigan cripples are again off the hospital list and ready for the attempt to upset Wisconsin championship hopes. Roby, Banks, and Johns, who were hurt in the game with Michigan Aggies, reported in good shape. Fielding H. Yost is placing much emphasis on his linesmen charging as a unit, while the backfield men are instructed in getting away fast on formations. Speed is the main object in the minds of the Wolverine coaches, for they realize that the only way to cope with the speedy Wisconsin backs is to match speed with speed.

Coach Richards is noncomittal on the backfield lineup for Saturday. Will Williams or Gibson pilot the team? Will Williams, Gibson, or Gould be in at left half when the opening whistle starts the two teams across the gridiron? It looks very much as if stocky "Rollie," the Edgerton pride, will be directing the eleven at quarter. He has shown capability, and with two weeks in which to polish rough edges, the little flash should match with the best of them.

With Williams at quarter, it would be logical to use Gibson at half. "Gib" played sub half last year. His work in the Illinois Homecoming game caused considerable comment. Backed by Capt. Sundt and "Rowdy" Elliott, this combination would keep the backfield intact, retaining the power that has upset three Big Ten elevens. The Wisconsin line will probably be the same as that which overwhelmed its heavier Gopher opponents.

Zbyszko Retains Title By Defeat of Caddock

DES MOINES, Ia.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, Poland, retained his world' heavyweight wrestling title in a finish match with Earl Caddock of Walnut, Ia., here Monday night in straight falls, the first after 1 hour and 20 minutes when he arose to his feet with Caddock on his back and then fell backwards, partially stunning Caddock and pinning him securely to the mat. The second came in 24 minutes and 11 seconds.

Hoppe Plays in Champ Form to Whip Peterson

CHICAGO—Champion Willie Hoppe, who has resigned supreme for 16 years in the balk line world, opened his week's engagement with Charley Peterson of St. Louis at Mussey's Madison st. room Monday.

Playing as close to championship conditions as it is possible to produce them, Hoppe averaged 57 1-7 in the afternoon and 50 at night, taking the afternoon session 400 to 129 and the night block 400 to 75.

Fort Atkinson Team Ready for Janesville

FORT ATKINSON, Wis.—The Fort Atkinson high school football team has an exceptionally good record for the season of 1921, having scored 243 points to their opponents' 26. The Fort has played seven games this season and has lost but one, that being Janesville, by a score of 13-0. The Fort team was considerably handicapped in the Janesville game because of the loss of Capt. Downing, their halfback, and Harland Myra, regular tackle. Fort Atkinson is ready to meet Janesville or any other team of the section on the Fort Atkinson gridiron on Thanksgiving day to determine the championship of this section.

Award Emblems and Pins at Meeting

Big emblems were awarded to Romayne Barryman '23, and Florence Hupprich '23 at the regular W. A. A. meeting held Tuesday evening in the S. G. A. rooms. Pins were given to Katherine Kitchin '23, Josephine Snow '24, Maurine Hall '24, and Elizabeth Schafer '23. Nine new members taken in at the same time are Barbara Hildreth '24, Dorothy Paull '24, Olga Lafel '24, Margaret Hatfield '24, Aileen Hall '24, Lucile Uhl '24, Alice Barton '22, Josephine Jung '24, Elizabeth Knott '24.

Willard Go With Jack is Off, Rumor

WICHITA, Kas.—Jess Willard has changed his mind about reentering the ring. He has quit the fight game for good and all hopes of a return match with Champion Jack Dempsey are off. This was the news George Siedhoss, his business partner, gave out on Tuesday. He said Jess has hit it rich in oil and doesn't need any assistance from the ring game now. An effort to get Willard to verify the statement failed.

College Cross Country Meet Here Nov. 12

Annex Now in Shape For Indoor Track Season

On Saturday morning at 11:15 an inter-college cross country will be held over the short course. Any man who has not run in the dual meets of this season is eligible to compete. The winning team will be given their college insignia, and the meet will count towards the possession of the Nelson trophy, now held by the Commerce school. Men wishing to enter should sign up with Coach Meade Burke.

Weather a Handicap

If the present weather continues, the meet will be doubly a test of endurance, and if the snow continues to flutter down the race will be run on snow-shoes. Any man who is able to gambol along the lake shore in a track suit under the present climatic conditions should be an untold joy to Madison landlords or else a candidate for Mendota.

The indoor track season will open on December 3 with the annex in better condition than it has been for years. The track has been filled in and graded, and new dirt has been spread over the hard center field.

The opening meet will be between the freshmen and the sophomores. The teams will be picked largely by the results of the meet which was held at Camp Randall on October 23.

The annual inter-fraternity meet is scheduled for December 10, and is expected to arouse a great deal of keen competition. Letters have been sent to all the chapter heads, and it is hoped that every fraternity will be represented.

Snow Storm Hampers Preparations of Michigan

ANN ARBOR—Hampered by a snowstorm, the Michigan varsity continued its preparation for the Wisconsin game with nearly all of the veterans rounding into shape. While Coach Yost will not announce his back field until just before the game, it is expected that Bank may start at quarter, with Kipke and Roby halves, and Cappon fullback. Over 800 tickets have been sold here and a student special will accompany the team to Madison. The varsity and coaches will entrain for Madison Thursday evening. The reserves and freshmen also will be taken on the trip.

ROUNDY'S CORNER

BY ROUNDY

I could have written the fight result of the Trainor and Sanger fight at least a week ago as you can say it all in a few words that Eddie is not in Sanger's class and should not have attempted to take him on.

* * *

It was plain that when Sanger fought Lea here that he was holding back and that he packs too many guns for Eddie. I cannot see who ever let this match get by.

Leo Trainor slipped Schneider the sleeping powders this time which was not much of a trick to pull off as Schneider as a fighter should buy a ticket to get in the hall.

Jack Burns kayoed Bob Stevens of Baraboo with a wicked blow to the stomach. The blow was a hard one and Stevens was a sick man as he started for the dressing room.

Then Boyd dished up a couple of battlers in the second fight that was the funniest thing that has ever come off at Turner hall since the days they used to hold the Punch and Judy shows there.

If Charley Chaplin comedies are selling at a fancy price then that fight should go on the market at a million dollars.

It looked to me at that as if Bricknell fouled Sheer the big fellow twice in that second fight. I might be mistaken but there seemed to be a lot more fans asking the same question.

* * *

Monohan took on a tough nut in this fellow named Brick. He was just tough and that was all. He had no class and no punch and both men were fresh at quitting time.

Monohan at that is one fighter that is always in there trying to fight. He gives you all he has and that is all a man can do. He did one thing last night that he has a stiff rebuke coming for. He got angry at the end of the fight and failed to shake Brick's hand. But later did the proper thing by doing so which saved him a lot of friends.

Notre Dame Eleven Swamps Rutgers, 48-0

NEW YORK—Out-classing its opponent in every department of play, the powerful Notre Dame eleven defeated Rutgers today at the Polo grounds, 48 to 0.

Western Grid Teams Again Defeat East

Pitt and Army Lose to Nebraska and Notre Dame

The contention that western football occupies just as important a place as does that played in the east was again forcibly impressed last Saturday. Both Notre Dame's victory over the Army and Princeton's triumph over Harvard served to bring out this fact.

Ten years ago the Tigers were victorious over the Crimson warriors, but since that time the best they were able to do was to tie them. After Chicago, a team already eliminated from the race for the western championship, defeated Roper's team, it did not look as if this was the year that the Tigers were to break the string of defeats.

The two teams were evenly matched and for three quarters there was no scoring done. In the third period, Owen kicked a place kick from the 34 yard line, and, with only six minutes left to play, it looked as if the outcome was settled. A line plunge followed the kickoff and then Gilroy grabbed the forward pass which netted 65 yards and a touchdown. In order to finish things up in good style, a placement kick was made which brought the score to a total of 10 to 3.

Notre Dame, another eleven which suffered defeat at the hands of a Big Ten conference school, overwhelmed the Army, supposedly one of the strongest teams in the east, by the one-sided score of 28 to 0. "Mickey" Mohardt was the big hero of the day, although the work of Kiley and Wynne is also deserving of favorable mention. The Hoosiers employed a new set of forward pass formations which worked so well that they literally marched up and down the field at will, the attack completely baffling the Army.

The biggest upset of the day in the east occurred when Nebraska handed Pittsburg a 10 to 0 beating. Coach Dawson's eleven gave evidence throughout the entire game of being the better-coached team of the two, the line, especially, doing away with its heavy opponents with little trouble.

Yale, by virtue of its 28 a 0 victory over Maryland, must be considered with Princeton as one of the probable winners of the Big Three.

The Political See-Saw

KENTUCKY and Maryland, which went for Harding in the national election, went back to the democratic party yesterday.

Hylan, democratic candidate for mayor of New York, was elected by a plurality in excess of 400,000.

That is sad news for the republicans.

To the people, however, this see-saw from the democrats to the republicans and from the republicans to the democrats makes but little difference. It makes but little difference to the people because BOTH of the old parties are controlled by the financial plutocracy of the country.

Lenroot And The Bonus

THE results of the election yesterday seem to indicate that there is nothing to the talk that "the soldiers themselves are not for the bonus."

That has been the alibi of members of Congress at Washington who have been endeavoring to squirm out of the uncomfortable position in which they found themselves after voting to lift $500,000,000 in taxes from the rich and at the same time voting against the soldier bonus.

Among these was Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin.

From New York comes word that the Judge Andrews, who wrote the opinion declaring New York's bonus law unconstitutional, was defeated in yesterday's vote. From Ohio comes word that the soldier bonus carried by a vote of 500,000.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa was one of the senators on the republican side who heeded President Harding's advise when the soldier bonus was first defeated by the senate. When the bonus again came up in the senate Saturday night, however, Kenyon refused to line up with the old guard again in defeating the bonus. He said:

"But I would not do it again. Not after two recent experiences. I listened not long ago to the testimony of a West Virginia coal operator who said he had last year paid an excess profits tax of a million dollars and didn't feel it. That same day I was called from my seat in the Senate to see an Iowa soldier who had been wounded seventeen times in France. He appealed to me on behalf of his starving wife and children, who were then being cared for by the Salvation Army because he could not support them."

Senator Lenroot, who has always posed as the friend of the soldier, will have some explaining to do in Wisconsin.

The Lincoln Steffens Lecture

IN Lincoln Steffens, who comes to Madison Thursday evening and speaks in the auditorium of the high school on the subject, "Revolution and Wars in the Making," the people of this city and county will have an opportunity of getting first hand information on many of the economic and industrial conditions in various parts of the world at present from one widely traveled, and one who has a most keen and discerning eye and a graphic and telling way of presenting it.

Mr. Steffens leaped into fame nearly twenty years ago, when as a member of a New York magazine staff he wrote a startling series of articles on the corruption on some of our great cities. He may be said to have been the pioneer among "muckrakers" and to have set the fashion which prevailed in the magazine world for a decade of featuring "exposure" stories showing up the relations then existing between graft, corruption and government. These articles had a most wholesome effect on public life and much credit for the good they did must be ascribed to the fearless manner in which this pioneer presented them.

Mr. Steffens is a native of California and is still under 60 years of age. He studied in various foreign universities and in 1892 became connected with the New York Evening Post. Then he became managing editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser, later of McClure's Magazine, and then associate editor of the American Magazine, in which publication some of his first sensational articles appeared. Among the books which he has published are "Shame of the Cities", "Struggle for Self-Government", "Upbuilders" and "The Least of These". More recently he has spent much time traveling and lecturing. Not long ago he made an extensive tour of Europe studying conditions there, making a particular study of Russia with a view to getting at the fundamentals of the conditions in that troubled country. More recently he has made a like tour and study of Mexico. In his lecture he will doubtless give his deductions and conclusions from such studies and these should be interesting coming from a man of his keen intellect and experience in determining facts and essentials.

Voice of the People

FROM GIRLS' CLUB

[To the Editor] The Directors of the Girls' Club feel so indebted to you for giving such fine publicity to our membership drive. Through your kindness in lending us your paper for the letters and the fine articles, we have had splendid success with the drive, and have established our budget for the coming year.

We are very grateful for your assistance, and thank you very cordially.—Mary E. V. Hanks, Cor. Sec'y.

HOW SWEET TO KNOW

By Andrew Otterson

How sweet to know in twilight's lingering close,
When all creation bows its head in prayer,
That some fair deed has earned a night's repose,
That some kind word has brought surcease from care.

How sweet to know when life's grim task is done,
When my brief years have reached their weary span,
That I have lived not for myself alone,
But gave a share to toil-spent fellow man.

MR. BAAS SERVICE

[To the Editor]: In no way do I want to project myself into the controversy started by Mr. Alexius Baas recently, but I feel it my duty to set right some of his critics who state that he did not serve as a soldier in the world war. Mr. Baas enlisted with me and fourteen other Wisconsin men, entered Camp Grant at the height of the flu epidemic there and went into training at the I. O. O. T. S., the camp's training school for infantry officers. I personally know that he enlisted voluntarily and that in doing so he not only lost all his pupils but was unable to rebuild his classes until almost a year after his release from the army. Common fairness demands that he be given credit for the sacrifice which he made during the war.—Wm. J. Meuer.

Thoughts In Season

By PROF. J. F. CRAWFORD

RESPONSIBILITY IN A DEMOCRACY

A democracy can succeed only when the citizens that compose it have a full sense of responsibility and carry that responsibility into every action. We have never yet had a successfully democratic society for this reason. There have been smaller groups—certain families, clubs, churches perhaps—in which the individual members met their responsibilities in full measure. In such groups true democracy has been exemplified. But society as a whole has not yet found a way of making more than a few of its members truly responsible. This is the big job of democracy.

It is partly a matter of education. To be the feeder of a democratic society, an educational system must train its children, not to accept by rote and copy but to think for themselves, not to evade obstacles but to surmount them, not merely to conform but to experiment and choose wisely. It must induce the social motives, real concern for others, a strong sense of fairness. Instead of the herd mind, it must produce ability to cooperate intelligently with others, respect for personality, and a conscience for work well done. Until a school system succeeds fairly well in producing such citizens, it has missed its calling in a democracy.

It is partly a matter of opportunity. To a very large degree responsibility grows with incentive, with the chance to do things, with occasions for cooperation. And this applies not merely to money making, but to the doing of anything that interests a man and calls out his hope and power. When the spirit is crushed responsibility dies. The more fully we shape industrial and other institutions so as to distribute control widely, to offer every one the incentives of real enterprise, and to foster the spirit and methods of team work, the larger will be the field in which we develop responsibility.

It is also partly a matter of information. Men act with responsibility only so far as they understand the conditions of their action and can forecast its consequences. In a democracy therefore the channels of intelligence must not be choked. Untrammelled newspapers, free discussion, the popularizing of science, better reporting of public affairs, open diplomacy, open corporation books, free access to all the relevant facts in every controversy, pitiless publicity—such things as these are indispensable conditions of that responsibility in men on which democracy must be based.

Is this a large order? It surely is. But nothing less will do. A democracy can be no better than the men of which it is built, and men are good only as they stand on their own feet and perform intelligently their own duty. No social order is good but an order of free, responsible men.

Under the pressure of immediate problems in our job, our union, our profession, our pet reform, we become absorbed in the special things, and forget the big thing. Of course we ought to specialize, and to fight the battle that is ours; but we will do that better if we see it always as part of the movement toward a democratic world.

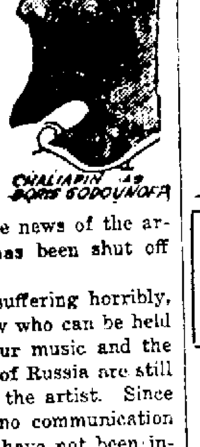
Above all, we who have the democratic faith must be utterly exacting in our claims upon ourselves. In a very real sense the hope of the world rests upon our shoulders. We owe to this faith a daily self-discipline, a conscience void of offense, a love that can give everything, a supreme personal responsibility.

Timely Views Not In The News

ART'S FUTURE IS IN AMERICA, SAYS RUSSIAN SINGER AND DIRECTOR OF OPERA.

"IT is in America that the art of the future will develop. Europe is old. It is not that she is artistically exhausted, but that she lacks the young, fresh vitality to turn her spiritual efforts into new channels."

So said Feodore Chaliapin, Russian singer and director of opera—or words to that effect, at least—accompanied by a wealth of gesture, inasmuch as his words came in a flood of Russian which had to be passed through the medium of an interpreter.



CHALIAPIN AS BORIS GODOUNOFF

"I have come to America now because for seven years I have been in Russia and because I wish to see what has happened to the world in all the years that I have been away from it," said Chaliapin. "This is to be no political visit and I have no governmental mission. I have come to sing in this country and to take back to Russia the news of the artistic world, from which it has been shut off since the revolution.

"I am told that Russia is suffering horribly, and if that is so I do not know who can be held responsible. We still have our music and the ancient traditions and beauty of Russia are still there to delight the heart of the artist. Since the revolution we have had no communication with the outside world. We have not been influenced by the musical developments of other countries. The Russian revolution has not stilled the music of Russia. It has rather turned it all the more toward development along strictly national lines.

"Writers have suffered in Russia far more than musicians," he added. "They have had no ink, no paper, no printing presses, whereas the singer has always his voice and his songs."

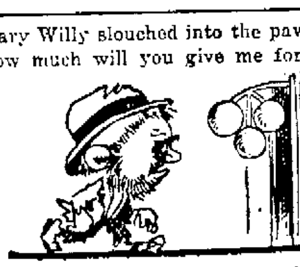
The singer's face brightened as he turned again to the subject of the artistically awakened America that he had come to see.

"Your young America has made such magnificent strides forward materially," he burst forth with eloquent gesture, 'that no one dares question that you will lead in the renaissance of art throughout the world. It is thirteen years since I have been in this country, but I predicted then what I assert now—that in America will spring up the new era. As a young people you have the strength and ability to guide the world. In the short time that I have been here I believe that I can already sense in the air the awakening of the new movement."

A Smile or Two

Weary Willy slouched into the pawnshop.

"How much will you give me for this overcoat?' he asked, producing a faded but neatly mended garment.



Isaac looked at it critically.

"Four dollars," he said.

'Why," cried Weary Willie, "that coat's worth ten dollars if it's worth a penny."

"I wouldn't give you ten dollars for two like that," sniffed Isaac. "Four dollars or nothing."

"Are you sure that's all it's worth?" asked Weary Willie.

"Four dollars," repeated Isaac.

"Well, here's yer four dollars," said Weary Willie. "This overcoat was hangin' outside yer shop, and I was wonderin' how much it was really worth."

The class in chemistry was wrestling with a tough problem.

"Suppose," supposed the professor, "you were called upon to attend a patient who had swallowed a heavy dose of oxalic acid—what would you administer?'

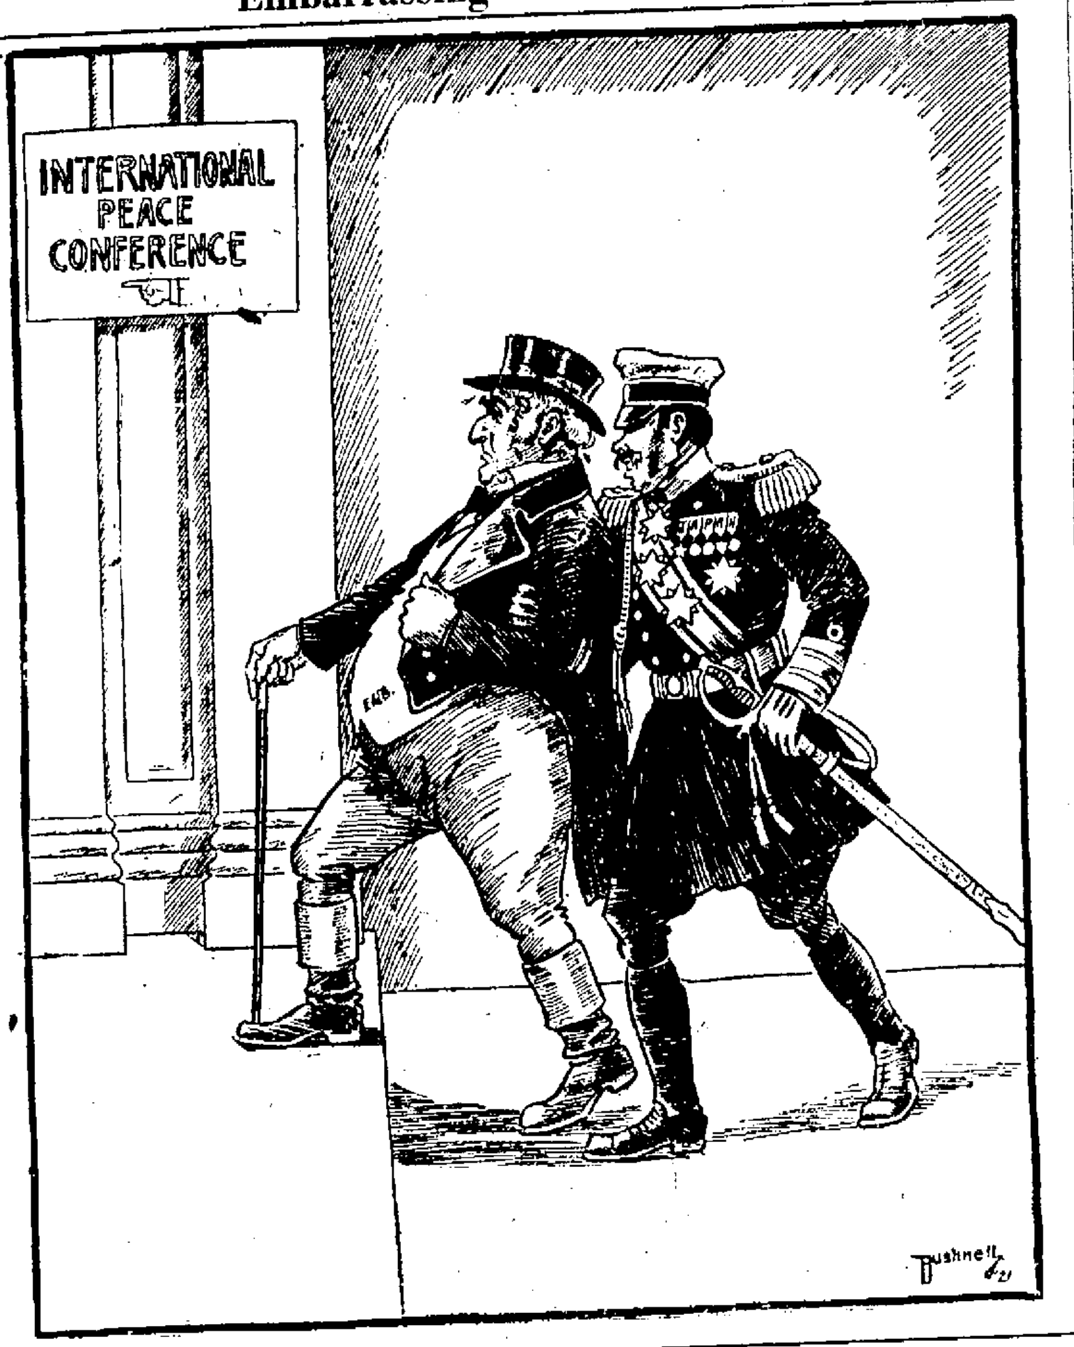
There was a silence for a few moments and then a voice spoke up: "The sacrament."

Two girls were overheard talking on a street car.

"Two weeks ago I refused to marry Freddie, and he has been drinking heavily ever since," said one.

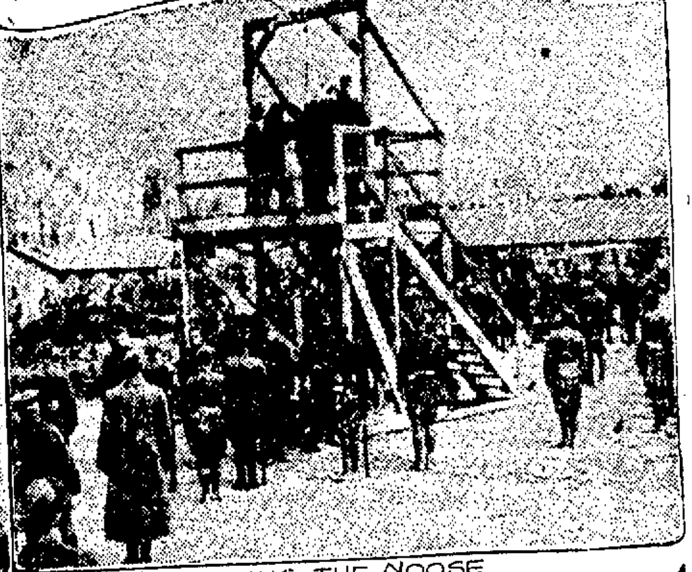
"Yes," responded her dear friend, "that's a foolish habit of Freddie's—he never knows when to stop a celebration."

Alliances Made From War's Necessity Sometimes Prove Embarrassing in Peace Times

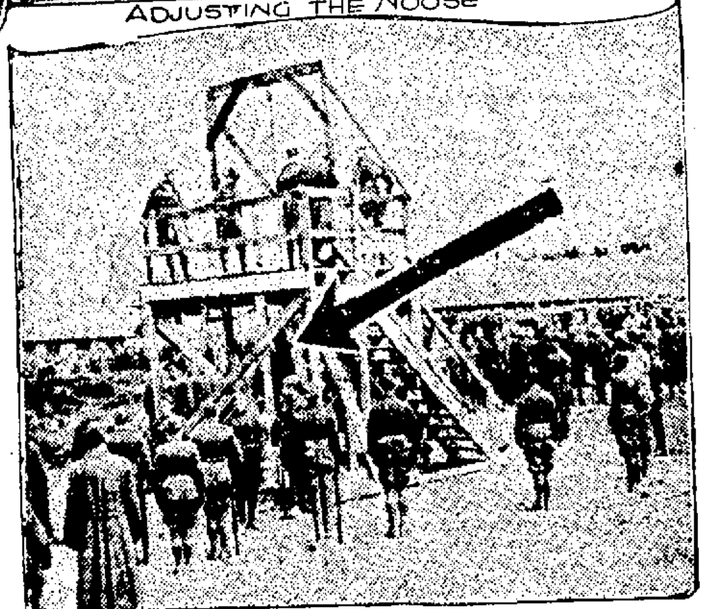


Watson Submits Photos To Show American Soldier Was Hung In France

JOHN J FORBES



ADJUSTING THE NOOSE



AFTER THE TRAP WAS SPRUNG

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator Watson of Georgia actually is in possession of photos showing a gibbet, and he has the word of an ex-soldier that the photos were taken in France. The former service man, John J. Forbes, of Cleveland, Ohio, says he is willing and anxious to go before a congressional committee and testify to what Sen. Watson charged that Yanks met shameful death on the gallows in France and that half has not been told of the cruelties inflicted on American fighters by their own officers.

Forbes not only makes the claim that he himself was the victim of the cruelty system "over there," but he witnessed a hanging. This was at Is-sur-Tille, France. Forbes produces photographs of this execution. He makes the claim that there were others. This is the story in the former marine's own words:

By John J. Forbes

"If the American people do not know that American boys were executed on the gallows during the war, it is time that somebody revealed the truth to them. They are entitled to know that outrageously cruel treatment was meted out to innocent men who went into a foreign land to protect their country against invasion.

"I know of what I speak, for I myself was one of the victims of this cruel treatment and I myself witnessed one of the hangings. What I saw and what I felt I know.

"About August, 1919, I was detained at the infamous Rue St. Anne's hotel. I was an enlisted man with the Fifth regiment of marines. In the four days I was detained I was subjected to the roughest sort of treatment by the guard composed of Thirtieth company marines. I was knocked down and was forced to undergo the "Swedish exercises" for about twenty minutes. This was a favorite form of cruelty to the men.

"These punishments I can prove by witnesses, were inflicted without cause. This particular guard company is well remembered by the A. E. F. for its cruelties. Who gave these men the authority to punish soldiers, I do not know.

"I witnessed one hanging at Is-sur-Tille, and with this article I produce photographs. These photographs show the gallows before and after the trap that sent an American boy to his shameful death, was sprung. The photographs show that this was an American being executed, for the armed guard surrounding the gallows all wear Yank uniforms.

"It is high time that the truth be told."

Schools Entitled to Badger Blue Book

State blue-books, summarizing men and activities of the government of Wisconsin, are available to schools and citizens of the state through their representatives in the legislature, David Atwood, state editor of printing said today. Each member of the legislature receives 200 copies which he is at liberty to distribute to his constituents, and to schools in his district. Schools may also obtain copies directly from the Superintendent of Public Property.

On the Side

THE SCIENTISTS

The scientists, the scientists, they say we shall not kiss.
They would deny the youthful wooers their small cup of bliss.
All osculation is taboo because, alas, alack,
There are ten million microbes in one adolescent smack.
The scientists would pass a law to bring this to an end,
Because the lover's kiss is but the undertaker's friend.
The scientists, the scientists, they teach us how to live.
Longevity's a subject upon which advice they give,
Each one has his own system, and it's seldom they agree.
But still they shoot their woozy bunk and jazz at you and me.
Obeying them, we're sure to live forever and a day.
But even these wise scientists are known to pass away.

THE NEWS OF HOPPERTOWN

Hank Tumms' wife has caused consid'ble consternation among her friends here by announcin' at the sewin' bee that she is goin' down to the city next Wednesday to have a fit. It seems as though it is just as cheap and it little more handy to have a fit at home if a person has got to have one. Later—We have learned that Hank's wife is only buyin' a new dress down to the city. The gentlemen in our midst have decided to give a musical comedy show at Tibbett's opry house in the near future for the benefit of Wide Awake Hose company No. 1. The company is all out of hose and they also need a new hose cart, hook and ladder, engine, engine house and new uniforms. About the only thing the company does not need is a speaking trumpet. The one they have now is in very good order. The show has been written by our poetess of passion, Miss Euphemia Mudge, and the music by Zachariah Tanner, the accomplished and versatile bass drummer in the silver Cornet band.

AND THEY SAY WE HAVE PROHIBITION

A certain well-known congressman who voted for prohibition told friends that he saw a bowlegged taxi the other day.

I knew a certain fellow
As poor as poor could be,
Who never had a cent to spend—
As even you and me.
But prohibition came along—
He bought in lots of "stuff,"
And now he owns a car or two—
Because he's a bootlegger and has hundreds of friends who don't have the time to get a prescription from the doc.

—Herbert Feldman.
